Traveling was always an adventure, especially when on the hunt for great seafood.

Survivors include his wife of over fifty-one years, Judy Hawkins Floyd, Bagdad; son Kevin (Stephanie) Floyd, Smithfield, son-in-law Paul Allison, Louisville; grandchildren Lincoln and Hunter Floyd, Alivia Fuchs and Brennen

Pallbearers will be John Rothenburger, Casey Fry, Mike Taylor, Larry Mand, Donnie Watts and Dru Terhune.

“ Glenn and I started first grade together at Bagdad and graduated in 1966 together. We also attended Bagdad Baptist Church. Glenn was a friend to all who met him. He had a great sense of humor and enjoyed others. If he was given a job to do he saw it through. He was a man of his word. Sorry for his passing. May his family find comfort in memories of him. In Christ Name, Mary Goins Hughes.

“ My earliest memories are of the farm and my cousins on the old Vigo Road, Playing and working on the farm, ball in the yard, wrestling around on the floor of the TV room, and fighting for that last glass of sweet tea. Glenn is now with his brothers and Raymond whom he never met except for a photo on the wall. Rest in peace my cousin and my sincere condolences to Judy and family and especially remaining brothers, “ Glenn was the kind of man folks wanted to have as a friend and neighbor. He and Judy brought much to relationships with so many folks. He had a great sense of humor and could appreciate a joke on himself as well as pulling one on another person. He was a good example of what many parents might want a son to become. May God comfort Judy and his entire family and friends.
