“ As her older sister, this has brought memories I had forgot..i.e. play together as children, identical clothes. Sharing rooms, then not sharing room, until she had hers so cluttered she had to move in with me. Growing in different directions her to Florida and me to Texas then it has gone so fast 50 years has gone. Different lives but never ever realized so much our DNA always matched.

I feel she is so much better off and left many of us to morn, but we will work through our pain by knowing she is no longer in pain and just putting away any negative and finding for her in her new home.
