

John Lawrence Hunt

September 2, 1921 - January 7, 2016

John Lawrence Hunt passed away peacefully at his home in Frankfort on Thursday, January 7th. There are no immediate arrangements, but his ashes will be placed with his wife's in the gardens at the Louisville Presbyterian Seminary at a time to be announced.

John was born in Memphis, Tennessee to Frances Mae and John Lee Hunt on September 2, 1921. He grew up in Memphis, served in the U.S. Marine Corps during WWII and was wounded in action in the South Pacific. After the war he attended the University of Alabama where he met his wife Geneva. He became a newspaper editor in Alabama, then later attended and graduated from the Louisville Presbyterian Seminary and was subsequently ordained. After pastoring churches in Indiana and Ohio he became the minister at South Frankfort Presbyterian Church here in Frankfort where he worked until he retired. He was most noted for his work with the youth in the church, leading them on trips with Native American tribes in various states and Canada.

John's beloved wife of many years, Geneva Ming Hunt, predeceased him. He is survived by his daughter Jennifer McCormick and her husband Dr. John McCormick, and granddaughter Anna; his son Rex Hunt and his wife Heather Housman and granddaughters Cathryn and Sarah.

“ I'm 73 next week, and John came to South Frankfort Presbyterian when I was 15 (?). He changed my life then and later when I was married with 2 children. The last time I visited him was a couple of years ago at Ashwood Place. I had visited Ginny there with him a couple of times before she died. I am a Methodist pastor now, and live in Danville, but in my heart John remained my pastor! I remember you two when you were just children. God bless you and the rest of your families. I am now Amy Barkman but used to be Marilyn Tackett.
